Report Allies In Accord On Strategy

Peggy Gave Flier This Photo

One of the photos introduced during the Errol Flynn trial in Los Angeles was this picture of Peggy Satterlee. She originally gave it to Capt. Owen Cathcart-Jones, RCAF pilot, who was a witness at the trial. It bears the inscription: "Lots of Love—Scruppet." Written on the back is a short note: "Thanks is all I can say—Little Peggy."

OBSERVERS SEE PLAN TO HIT EUROPE

Believe United Nations Seek To Force Hitler To Fight on Two Fronts.

QUESTION SUB MENACE

Russia, China Seen Joining In New Offensive Set-up For Present Year.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—High diplomatic sources in Wshington today expressed the belief that the official veil of secrecy which has covered momentous Allied strategy talks will be lifted this week.

Vital decisions affecting the future strategic conduct of the war by the United Nations already are believed to have been reached.

The view prevails in diplomatic circles that the decisions probably include plans for a major Allied invasion of the European continent this year.

If Germany can be forced to fight a major war on two land fronts—in Russia and in western Europe—informed diplomatic observers believe the Allies stand a good chance of crippling Hitler's military might by the end of the year.

There are not many, however, who are so optimistic as to predict the complete defeat of Germany this year. Most of the official and diplomatic observers in Washington believe it will take until 1944 to knock Germany out of the war.

With Germany still considered to possess a terrific offensive punch both in her army and air force, desperately hard fighting, involving heavy casualties, is foreseen before the Allies can hope to achieve a decisive victory in Europe.

Meanwhile, the question of when the Allies will attempt to open a major land front in Europe this year is considered to depend on two factors:

First, how quickly the Axis foothold in Tunisia can be wiped out.

Secondly, how successfully the Allies can overcome the Axis submarine menace in the Atlantic.

In connection with North Africa, it is believed the strategy discussions have led to decisions affecting not only the military operations there but also the confused political situation in the French territories.

There is a strong belief in diplomatic circles that a decision has been reached concerning the ap-

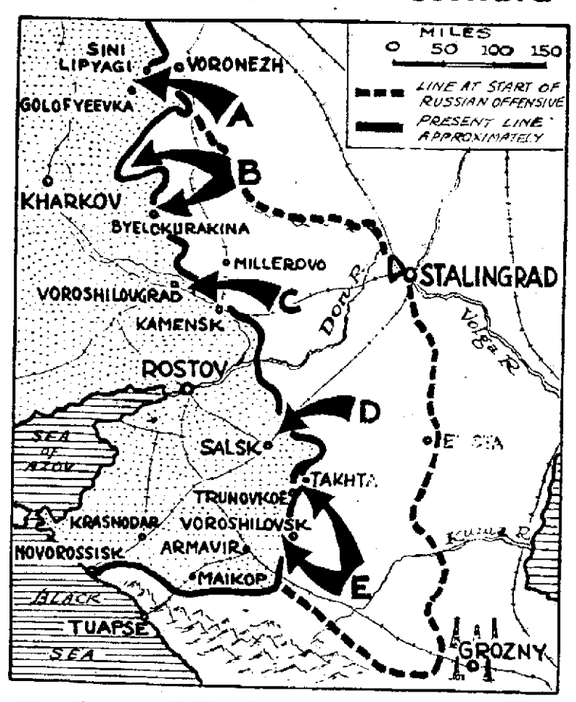
Where Reds Push Westward



The above map clarifies the vital winter campaign of the Soviet armies through the region of unpronouncable names in south Russia. At (A) the Germans today finally admitted they had been pushed out of Voronezh—a city which the Russians say the Nazis never held. At (B) twin armies strike toward Kharkov, the Pittsburgh of the Ukraine. At (C) and (D) two more striking forces seek to encircle Rostov and trap an estimated 185,000 Germans in the Caucasus below the Don river. Since the above map was drawn, the Russians have announced they have swept ahead at (E) to capture Armavir, key to the Maikop oil fields. Berlin dispatches indicated today that the Nazis are about to admit the loss of 22 divisions trapped before Stalingrad, shown at right center.

MYSTERY OF 'LOWER 13' MURDER GROWS

Police Hold Two Passengers on Death Train For More Questioning.

BLOOD TRAIL FOUND

Unidentified Negro Hunted In Slaying of Bride on Speeding Train.

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Los Angeles police today removed from an incoming train Robert Folkes, 21, Negro diner cook on the train on which Mrs. Martha James, wife of a naval ensign, was mysteriously slain in Oregon.

(By Associated Press)

PORTLAND, Ore.—The slaying of comely Mrs. Martha Virginia Brinson James, 21, whose throat was slit as she lay in lower berth 13 of a California-bound train, grew more mystifying today.

Clues abounded, but police in their third day of investigating the strange death of a navy ensign's bride said they could determine no motive and could find no suspects.

They held two men for questioning, at Klamath Falls, Marine Private Harold R. Wilson, 22, Buckley, Wash., who slept in upper 13, and John Funches, 30, Oakland, Calif., dining car waiter on the train, but emphasized there was no evidence to connect them with the crime.

They issued a John Doe warrant for the arrest of a third man, an unidentified negro, who was believed to have been a passenger, although trainmen could find no record of him.

Police said this was the story: Mrs. James, daughter of a prominent Norfolk, Va., family, was following her husband of four months, Ensign Richard F. James, after a routine navy transfer from Seattle.

About 4 a. m. Saturday as the train neared Tangent, Ore., two men in berths near Mrs. James heard a woman exclaim, "I can't take this any longer," and then, "My God, this man is killing me." A scream followed.

One of the men, Eugene Nor-

Thrust Toward Rommel's Road On Gabes Coast

Seize 80 Prisoners As Allied Lines Hold Firm To North; Russians Close In Steadily On Key Bases At Kharkov, Rostov.

(By Associated Press)

Striking swiftly across southern Tunisia, American troops have raided an Axis position near Maknassy, only 33 miles from the coastal road along the Gulf of Gabes, weak link in Marshal Rommel's line of withdrawal to merge forces with Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim.

An Allied headquarters communique, which announced that the Americans took 80 prisoners, did not indicate how near the coast the American striking force was based, but the penetration was the closest yet made to the coastal road which the Germans must hold open if Rommel is to be saved.

A military spokesman said the raid, obviously in force, answered the taunt of a note the Nazis dropped on U. S. lines saying: "Why don't the Americans come out and fight?"

Allied lines held firm in the Ousseltia valley, more than 100 miles to the north. Here the Germans gained ground last week, and Allied fliers bombed a ship in Sousse harbor and an airdrome near the Tripolitanian border.

Hitler, who lost his return bout with the Russian winter, and Mussolini, who lost his African empire, had the bleak prospect of further unmeasured reverses today as the Red army rolled relentlessly westward on a 500-mile front and merging Allied armies squeezed Axis troops into a vise in Tunisia.

The Russians reported closing in steadily upon the key German bases of Rostov and Kharkov, announced the whole eastern and central Caucasus cleared of invaders, and captured three more towns in thrusts threatening to flank the Maikop oilfields and cut the Germans' road of retreat.

In North Africa the British swept on beyond captured Tripoli, their vanguards perhaps already across the Tunisian border, as American forces hurled the weight of their tanks, guns and planes into the fight from the west to bolster the hard-pressed French middle front.

Hard reality apparently was coming home to roost in Berlin too plain to be concealed.

The German communique said today "the bridgehead of Voronezh," on the upper Don, had been evacuated by the Axis "in order to shorten the front."

That ended months of pretense by Hitler's high command that Voronezh was in German hands. The Russians said it never had been captured, and from it they based their present assault into

Test Shows Need of More Air Raid Sirens

Civilian Defense Officials Describe Sunday Night Reception As 'Greatly Improved.'

Although "great improvement" was noted in last night's second test of Mansfield's air raid signal sirens Civilian Defense council members and technicians indicated today that three, and possibly four more sirens will be necessary to insure adequate alarm facilities for the greater Mansfield area.

Nearly 500 of the more than 600 air raid wardens reporting on qualities of siren noise reception last night declared the present arrangement satisfactory, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, said today after a preliminary study of reports compiled in the control center, operation.

Sections of Park avenue west reported poor reception, with or without radios operating in homes. Faint reception was noted in parts of Bowman street and West Fourth street road but only one Madison township warden reported failure to hear the alarm. The Wooster and Ashland road areas reported satisfaction, as did the South Boulevards and Roseland areas.

In Lincoln Heights, East Mansfield and the Ohio Brass plant sectors reception was good, wardens reported.

Following the Dec. 6 test mobilization Chairman James A. McDermid of the defense council's technical committee and City Electrician Ernest Adams readjusted the mechanism of some sirens, changed hood positions and relocated relays in power lines. Sound engineers co-operated.

At an early meeting of the defense council, Judge Kalbfleisch said today, it likely will be decided to buy the required additional number of sirens to properly equip Mansfield and the adjoining Madison and Mifflin township areas for blackout tests to be started in March by the state defense council.

Asks Readers To Buy Only Single Edition Of Paper

CANTON—(AP)—The Repository, Canton's only daily newspaper, is asking its readers to buy no more than one edition daily and to pass one copy around in offices, shops, stores and other business places.

In this way the Repository's Sunday edition says in a front-page article, readers can help meet limitations forced by the curtailed supply of newsprint the paper will receive this year.

"If you prefer to buy your copy on the streets, then please take that copy home and permit us, as much as we regret the necessity, to discontinue the carrier delivery to your home," the paper says.

"It is one of the few times in the history of the Repository that we have had to worry about too much circulation.

The Repository, published by Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., also says that, because of a zinc metal shortage, the paper finds it necessary to reduce the number and size of pictures printed.

COLD ON WAY

Mercury To Take Sudden Drop Tonight, Forecast.

With the mercury in the past 48 hours about 20 degrees above normal, Richland countians are due for a rude change tonight with snow flurries and colder temperatures predicted.

Lowest temperatures may reach zero, the state weatherman forecast, with readings as low as 10 above predicted generally. Increasing winds are to be expected this afternoon, he warned.

Sunday's warm weather sent the mercury to the 57 mark, with 33 the coldest of the 24-hour period.

WIFE SHOOTS THE WRONG MAN

Husband Won't Quit Poker Game So She Fires Shotgun.

ROCHESTER, Ind.—(INS)—Mrs. Beatrice Dowling, 23, red-haired bride of four months, was held in Fulton county jail today charged with killing Robert L. Hoffman with a shotgun charge intended for her husband, Arvil.

Sheriff Frank Summers said Mrs. Dowling, an expectant mother, and her husband were playing poker with Hoffman at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shively. At 3 a. m. Mrs. Dowling asked her husband to quit the game and go home with her. He refused.

Mrs. Dowling left, but returned shortly with a 12-gauge shotgun. She fired, the sheriff said, but Dowling was unscathed. Hoffman was killed.

PLANE CRASHES

Nine Believed Dead in Bomber Accident In Colorado.

ORDWA, Colo.—(AP)—A four-motored army bomber crashed and burned 18 miles north of this southeast Colorado town late last night and all persons aboard were killed, Undersheriff J. J. O'Connell reported.

O'Connell said ranchers in the area placed the toll "at between nine and 11 dead."

FBI Asks Check Of Boilers At Hartman Plant

At the request of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, Fire Captain L. R. Zimmerman, acting chief, and the Mansfield police sabotage squad today were inspecting the boiler room equipment at the fire-gutted plant of the Hartman Electric company, Fifth and Diamond streets.

Flames which virtually destroyed the war plant the night of Jan. 12 started in the boiler room, supposedly in bales of paper cartons which were stored there. Leaping to third-story rooms in the up-draft of an elevator shaft the blaze baffled firemen for eight hours but their efforts to protect sections of the building housing

LOSE 601 SHIPS

Allies Pay Heavily To Subs Since Pearl Harbor.

(By Associated Press)

Enemy submarines—termed the navy's "first enemy" by Admiral Harold R. Stark—have taken a toll of 601 Allied and neutral merchant ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor, the Associated Press count of officially announced sinkings showed today.

Announcement of the sinking of eight vessels, two of them American, were made last week. Seven of the eight were sent to the bottom off South America.

As officials in Washington and abroad emphasized the serious threat of the submarine situation to United Nations' war plans, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, declared:

"The enemy is now using U-boats in larger packs and with new tactics. The U-boats now are even more concentrated than before. They are now lying, not in single packs, but if I may use a military expression, in echelons of packs."

8 KILLED WHEN BOMBER FALLS

Three Officers Among Victims of Crash Near Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan.—(INS)—Three officers and five staff sergeants were dead today, victims of the crash of a four-motor army bomber which plunged to earth and burned one mile from the Topeka air base.

The dead were First Lieut. William L. Stephenson, Chicago; Second Lieut. James B. Hinds, North Hollywood, Cal.; Second Lieut. Jack C. Mulligan, Selma, Cal.; and Staff Sergts. Louis A. Scherr, Philadelphia; Blane W. Houston, Cincinnati; Donald E. Groves, Portland, Me.; Arthur J. Harvey, Jr., Escanaba, Mich. and George P. Richards, Jr., New Orleans, La.

CITY CAR GETS WEEK-END REST

Agitation Starts at City Building For Marking of Municipal Vehicles.

While the city service department auto enjoyed a rest in the City Hall parking area today sentiment was spreading among city officials for painting "City of Mansfield" ownership identification on all municipally-owned vehicles, with the possible exception of police cruisers and motorcycles.

The service car, "mysteriously missing" on frequent occasions, was in the City Hall parking area most of yesterday following publication of that fact that its use apparently was not always on official business and not always available for use by the service department.

Agitation for putting signs on the city cars followed disclosures over the week-end that the Nash sedan, purchased under a council appropriation last August for official use of the service-safety department, was not available Friday when Councilman George C. Kyle asked Director Fred B. Wolff to make an inspection of a broken water line on North Adams street. Mayor W. J. Locke was out of the city Friday. The in-

DATES OF NEXT ARMY TESTS SET

Richland Men to Go to Akron Feb. 9-11 For Exams.

Next of Richland county's selective service draftees will go to Akron Feb. 9-11 for examination and subsequent induction, if they are found qualified for service.

Boards one and two, which have small calls for next month, will send their men on Feb. 9 and 10, respectively, while Board 3, which has another large call, will send men both on Feb. 10 and Feb. 11.

Notices of the examination and induction date have already gone out to the prospective draftees from board one while boards two and three expected to send their notices this week.

REACH FINALS

Six Chosen as Top Speakers In Prince of Peace Contest.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Six young persons were chosen in elimination contests last night to appear in the finals of the annual Prince of Peace declamation contest to be held at the Ohio pastors' convention at Columbus Feb. 2. It is sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

They were Joanne Huber, Wooster; Dorothy Rice, Springfield; Barbara Bennett, Dayton; Wanda Lee Coley, Akron; Arnella Christies, Canton, and Dick Halpin, Massillon.

WORK SLOWED

Weather Interferes With Air Depot Building Work.

Unseasonably warm weather over the week-end which turned the site of the army air force supply depot north of Shelby into a sea of mud temporarily halted operations today at the project.

Workmen who are constructing a drainage system at the site and installing spur-line trackage were expected to resume operations this afternoon if the sticky mud settled enough or froze, said Capt. Glen E. Shaw of the army engineering corps.

"It was just too heavy to do any work this morning, but we'll probably try it this afternoon," Capt. Shaw said.

Meanwhile, Mayor W. R. Morris of Shelby was to confer in Shelby today with a government representative and a member of a Toledo engineering firm regarding a federal grant of $135,000 for a proposed waterworks expansion program for the city.

EVACUATE CITY

Nazis Order Residents from Old Port at Marseilles.

LONDON—(INS)—The German-controlled Vichy radio reported today in a broadcast recorded by Reuter's that Nazi authorities had ordered evacuation of all residents from the old port of Marseilles for reasons of "military security."

French police, it was asserted, arrested 6,000 persons at Marseilles to "safeguard order."

CONVENT BURNS

Famed Structure Built In 1789 Destroyed by Fire.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass.—(INS)—Fire today destroyed the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth convent here with a loss of $20,000. The convent was built in 1789 as a residence for Theophilus Parsons, chief justice of the Massachusetts supreme court and John Quincy Adams studied law there.

DIRGE: Germans Get Gloomy Word In Newspaper Headlines

(By United Press)

LONDON—German radio listeners heard dirges on their radio stations today and read newspapers whose headlines were no less gloomy.

The radio funeral music, interspersed with bluntly pessimistic dispatches from the Russian front, and the headlines were preparing the German public for an early admission that the 22 German divisions trapped at Stalingrad were no more and that the situation elsewhere in Russia was none too favorable.

Alfred Rosenberg, the ruthless Nazi political philosopher, said in a speech at Berlin yesterday: "Germany today lives through the most decisive and fateful hours of its history."

The newspapers under big headlines described the bitter cold and privations of the men at the front and admitted that before Stalingrad the Russians had broken through the German positions and into the city—where they had been all along.

"For the first time in the war the German people must face a defeat of some magnitude," the Berlin newspaper Boersen-Zeitung said.

It said hopefully that nobody should be discouraged because the Romans, when threatened by Han-

WORKABLE: M'Arthur Says Air Attacks Will Defeat Japanese

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American forces on a general offensive in the Solomon islands were reported by the navy today to have won seven important positions from the enemy on Guadalcanal, to have killed 201 Jap soldiers and captured 40, and to have virtually wiped out an enemy island base 190 miles to the northwest by sea and air attack.

(By Associated Press)

Victory in the Pacific by "swift, massive strokes" of airborne and air-supported forces outspeeding the slower plan of island-to-island reconquest was held possible today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur who said the Allied recapture of the Papuan peninsula had tested and proved the new tactics.

A note of caution, however, was injected by Australian Army Minister Francis Forde who declared the Japanese undoubtedly would strike a counter blow at the first opportunity to save face for their reverses. In a statement reviewing the Papuan victory and describing the transport by air of complete infantry regiments, artillery battalions, field hospitals and supplies which made it possible, MacArthur said:

"A new form of campaign was tested which points the way to the ultimate defeat of the enemy in the Pacific."

These new methods, he said, demonstrated the possibilities inherent in "continuous, calculated application of air power" and opened the way to "new and broadened strategic and tactical conceptions."

Allied air power continued to shake the Japanese in their remaining strongholds in the New Guinea area over the week-end Airdromes at Rabaul and Gasmata, on New Britain island, and shore installations at Lae and Salamaua, on the northeast coast

Religious Census Workers To Start Training Tuesday Night

One hundred and fifty ward colonels and precinct majors of the Mansfield Religious Census will meet Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce to inaugurate the series of training meetings for census workers.

Ralph Stanton, chairman of the census, announced today that Tuesday's meeting will serve as planning session for the workers' meetings to be held in public and parochial schools on Wednesday night.

The census leaders will have the opportunity of studying typical census interviews through the medium of a series of skits written by Mrs. Charles Ray, 20 State street. Assignment of territories and the distribution of supplies preparatory to the Wednesday meetings will be made Tuesday night.

The meetings Wednesday will be held in the following schools, Johnny Appleseed, John Simpson, Western, Newman, Hedges, St. Peter's, Woodville, and Madison. They will be conducted by the census colonels assisted by the following precinct majors:

Chas. Abele, Philip Ackerman, Miss Ruth Aderman, Rex G. Averill, H. O. Baer, Mrs. D. T. Balph, Mrs. Kenneth Bell, Mrs. J. G. Belt, O. M. Beveridge, Mrs. Wm. Boley, Mrs. Esther Braden, Lena Brandenburg, T. D. Brown, H. E. Cave, Mrs. Walter Coder, A. M. Colby, Mrs. E. C. Crider, ton, Daly City, Calif., looked into the train aisle immediately. He said he saw Private Wilson lifting Mrs. James, who had sprawled into the aisle.

Blood spurted from a neck wound, and Norton said, "It looked to me the wound was made by a gouge."

Norton also said he saw a man running down the aisle, but it was dark and "it might have been a cuttan fluttering."

Wilson said the scream awakened him and he looked out in time to see a heavy-set man running away.

A porter, called from the car next to Mrs. James' sleeper, said no one had passed that way.

A trail of blood specks was found through the three cars to the rear of the sleeper.

Tracks found in the snow where the train stopped momentarily in Tangent indicated a man stepped off the California-bound limited and swung aboard a northbound train. Police said, however, a brakeman could have made the tracks.

A brakeman said he saw a negro of Wilson's description on the train between Portland and Salem. The negro was not seen after the train left Salem, 30 miles north of Tangent.

Dr. John Beeman of the state police medical staff said Mrs. James had not been raped. The woman's purse containing $112 in cash was undisturbed

A week-end communique said 145 more Japanese had been killed in ground fighting on Guadalcanal island.

The Japanese countered with air raids on an American base on Espiritu Santo island in the New Hebrides Friday night, and on Guadalcanal the following day.

From India, RAF bombers made another low-level attack on the Japanese airdrome at Schwebo, in central Burma, last night and at the same time raided often-bombed Akyab island on the west coast of Burma. None of the British planes were lost.

Rabaul Flames Seen From 75 Miles Away

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA (Via Courier)—(Delayed)—(INS)—Flames visible 75 miles away swept Rabaul this morning after Lieut. Hal Winfrey of Harlan, Ky., swooping in for the third raid on the big New Britain base in as many days, scored direct hits in a huge fuel dump near Vunukanau airdrome

Lieut. Charles Trimingham of Salina, Calif., was the flying fortress' co-pilot; Lieut. Francis Paine of Beacon, N. Y., was bombardier, and Lieut. Jose Holdquin (address unavailable) was navigator.

Other fortresses that scored hits on Jap installations in the predawn attack were piloted by Lieuts. Chad Olsen of Salt Lake City, Utah, Arthur Curren of Staten Island, N. Y., and Capt. Charles Giddings, of Munda, Tex.

REQUEST DELAY

Butter Makers Want Reprieve Before Setting Aside Products.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio butter manufacturers, who will be required to set aside 30 per cent of their products for the government after Feb. 1, have requested a delay in the order until after March, Russell Fifer, executive secretary of the Ohio Dairy Products association, announced today.

Fifer, in announcing the proposal was sent to Claude Wickard, food administrator, said butter production during February and March is only one-third normal. He suggested that manufacturers make up the amounts needed for these two months later when production is greater.

SCOUTS TO USE CONVENTION PLAN TO PICK CITY OFFICIALS

Dividing of Boy Scout troops into the Nationalist and Federalist parties for elections Feb 15-19 to decide which candidates will take over the administration of Mansfield on Feb. 26 will be completed at Scout meetings Tuesday, Floyd Dent, scout executive, has announced

This year the convention plan of nomination will be followed instead of the primary system, as in the past, to show the boys the difference in each system, Dent said Troops will elect a representative from each party who will meet in convention at 7:30 p. m Feb 2 in scout headquarters to nominate candidates for the various offices Elections during Feb 15-19 will be carried on at scout meetings by secret ballot.

Eligibility for the offices which Mansfield scouts will take over are as follows: mayor, eagle scout; city solicitor, star scout; municipal judge, star; city engineer, first class scout; city auditor, tenderfoot; police chief, clerk of council and safety director, first class scout. No councilmen will be elected this year

County offices will be handled by scouts from Ontario, Bellville, Lexington; South Boulevards and Lincoln Heights They will take over seats filled by probate and common pleas judges, sheriff, county recorder, treasurer and auditor Several other offices will be filled by appointment, Dent said

There is a good deal of speculation whether Gen. Eisenhower will be given this joint command, or whether some other Allied general will get it

London reports have indicated that some British elements feel Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, British commander in chief in the middle east, is in line for the job as a result of the successful manner in which his Eighth army has chased the Axis forces from Egypt to the borders of Tunisia.

Tell Germans To Expect New Thrust

NEW YORK—(INS)—The British radio said today in a German-language broadcast directed to Europe that "any moment the European phase of the great Allied offensive may be expected, an offensive from the west, coordinated with Russian operations in the east," according to CBS.

"The American secretary of state, Cordell Hull, yesterday spoke about the excellent teamwork of the many governments within the framework of the United Nations," the broadcast said. "Now that the Eighth army has reached Tripoli and has pushed beyond it in order to drive the Germans and Italians completely out of Africa, further developments are eagerly awaited in the United States and Great Britain These developments will be the pattern from the victorious advance of the United Nations.

"It is reported from Washington: Still closer collaboration in the United Nations' fight against the U-boats is expected.

"The four principal powers of the United Nations, Great Britain, Russia, the U.S.A. and China, after thorough discussion, will soon be putting into practice strategic plans for gaining a rapid victory.

"Any moment the European phase of the great Allied offensive may be expected, an offensive from the west, coordinated with Russian operations in the east."

For some time it has been general report around City Hall that Locke has been using the service department car.

Nearly every other city, in Ohio and other states, inscribe all mobile equipment—especially motor vehicles—with an identifying emblem and inscription "City of ———." That practice is followed in "branding" Richland county equipment, including official cars of the sheriff's office. State highway patrol autos are readily identified by the departmental emblem.

"This prevents abuse of the equipment through private use," one official commented.

Kyle said Saturday he would ask council to specifically describe the uses of city-owned cars, it being his understanding that personal use is beyond the "intent or conception" of such purchases by council.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(AP)—American soldiers are trained not to die for their country, but to kill enemy soldiers, Lieut.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum declared yesterday.

Gen. The Truth About THE 40-HOUR WEEK!

THE FORTY-HOUR WEEK has been misrepresented, distorted, exaggerated, and misinterpreted until many people BELIEVE that the individual is limited, LEGALLY, or otherwise, to working A MAXIMUM OF FORTY HOURS PER WEEK.

That is, of course, a MALICIOUS UNTRUTH, to state it mildly. We should say IT'S A DELIBERATE LIE!!

Consequently, so as to truthfully explain the existing situation, we must spread this information:

That the forty-hour week is simply A BASIS OF PAYMENT, and when you work over 40 hours total, you are entitled to overtime or premium rates.

There is nothing whatever in the Wage and Hour Act which in any way limits the number of hours that a man can be worked by his employer. In fact, a man could be worked a hundred hours a week without any violation of the Act.

Some manufacturers have been griping because they hate to pay overtime, or do anything which approaches increasing weekly earnings. Therefore, they are spreading all kinds of propaganda and falsehoods; as well as all manner of variations from the facts in order to kill this JUST STATUTE, commonly known as the Wage and Hour Law.

Undoubtedly they have done this vicious job so well that an incredibly high percentage of our population is under the erroneous impression that workers are unwilling to and are not working in excess of 40 hours a week.

This tremendously unfair thought must be erased from all minds, and it is up to us to enlighten the public. Otherwise, the people of this country will rapidly be mentally conditioned for a change in the Wages and Hour Act, which will compel Labor to work an unlimited number of hours, with no overtime applicable.

The manner in which some of the largest employers have deliberately misinterpreted the President's recent executive order covering payment of 6th and 7th consecutive days worked, should be a warning as to what they are capable of doing in that direction.

Accordingly, you will do a great service by assisting to clear up misunderstandings which at present exist among misguided people relative to the FORTY-HOUR WEEK.

As a matter of fact, workers in essential industries are currently averaging 47½ hours a week.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 25, 1943.

Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country. And by the blessing of God, may that country itself become a vast and splendid monument, not of oppression and terror, but of wisdom, of peace, and of liberty, upon which the world may gaze with admiration forever.—Daniel Webster.

Cause of Present Food Shortage

HERBERT HOOVER'S statement on farm and food problems calls for careful consideration. Most Americans have had the impression that there was a great surplus stock of foodstuffs in this country and that vast quantities had already gone to our foreign allies, with plenty to follow.

But Mr. Hoover, a relentless statistician, says bluntly that we are sending less than half the meats and fats to our allies that we sent them in the last war, and yet we face a greater shortage of such foodstuffs at home than we did then.

The main trouble, he explains, is that since the last war the supply of American livestock has not kept pace with the growth of human population. We may have more cattle, sheep and pigs than we had 25 years ago, but they have not kept pace with the human production. We haven't so much meat and milk per person. Per capita supplies of beef and milch cows are less now than they were at the end of the last war.

The obvious need, as Mr. Hoover sees it, is "to build up flocks and herds and the production of vegetable oils." This requires farm labor, and cannot be done adequately by women and children while their men go to war.

Fortunately the American public has begun to realize some of these facts, and congress is turning to the task of keeping more men on the farms and seeing that they are supplied with adequate machinery. Otherwise we cannot feed both our own people and our foreign allies, to whom food itself is war material.

Strange Choice of U. S. Diplomat

ADMIRABLE as the trait may be, the practice of picking personal or political friends for appointment to high positions which they are unfitted to fill is a dangerous failing of some elected officials.

It was a peculiar weakness of the late President Harding that he "couldn't turn down a friend" and it was this widely recognized characteristic that brought on the most of his administrative troubles.

The same trait has been so evident in appointments made by the present incumbent in the presidential office that no specific instances need be mentioned—except possibly those of Harry Hopkins and Frances Perkins.

Now, however, the matter of appointing Edward J. Flynn to the post of United States minister to Australia, with rating as an "ambassador," again brings the subject to public notice in such a way that it cannot be safely ignored.

However much it may be deemed proper to reward Eddie Flynn for his partisan political activity, it is unfair that this New York politician—in the worst sense of that term—should be foisted on the American people as the type of man they would choose to represent them in an important diplomatic position. If Flynn is to exemplify the kind of war and post-war "diplomacy" to be expected of the United States, then the future for this country will be dark indeed.

As a "courtesy" to the president, the senate may confirm the nomination of Flynn. That would be an example of democracy functioning at its worst.

How It's Done In Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN'S mayor has at least given that city's police department a clear understanding of what he wants done about the gambling situation there.

He tells the chief of police, "Clean up gambling or resign," and the chief relays to patrolmen, "Clean up your beats or face suspension."

Another interesting slant on the Youngstown incident is that the county prosecutor and sheriff's office took action within municipal bounds and raided numbers racket headquarters, one of which was reported to be "just around the corner from city hall."

Whatever may be the outcome of Youngstown's attempted "clean-up" it will be noted that law enforcement INTENT is clearly stated and members of the police department are given to understand just what is expected of them.

Treaty-Breaking Not New

THE IMMEDIATE cause of the present war was, of course Hitler's unprovoked attack on Poland in 1939. This was despite the fact that only five years before the two countries had each agreed by a treaty not to attack the other. This treaty had still five years to run when Hitler tore it up.

It is not the first time in German history that such a breach of faith occurred. In 1791 King Frederick William II of Prussia guaranteed the integrity of Poland. Only two years later he joined with the empress of Russia to rob the unhappy Poles in the so-called Second Partition of Poland. By this Prussia received the province of Posen, so essentially Polish that it contained Poland's first capital. It remained German till restored to its people by the first World war.

One of the aims of the present war is to make it definitely unprofitable to break a solemn treaty.

Restriction On Milk Bottles

WHILE tires may be conserved and delivery costs reduced by eliminating pint bottles of milk, it is doubted that compulsory purchase of a quart of milk at a time, as is now proposed to become effective February 1, will serve to reduce family milk requirements.

A quart of milk is more than many people need at one time, and inclination may be to use it more freely than necessary, in order to avoid spoiling. Except for serving as a drink, in hotels and restaurants, the half-pint bottles are largely confined to sale of cream, it being mainly in pints and quarts that milk is bottled for family use.

Retail milk prices have already been permitted a considerable percentage of increase and it is now announced as the desire of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to assure farmers adequate prices to meet stock food costs without further advance in milk prices. Restriction to use of quart bottles is among the distribution economies planned—and if it serves the purpose of preventing another price increase its inconvenience will be at least partially offset.

OLD HARD REALITIES OF WAR
UNITED NATIONS

Think Post-War Plans Premature

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—American Legion Commander Roane Waring's warning that now's too soon for the United Nations' leaders to be discussing post-war plans is finding a deal of support in congressional circles, on the ground that we'll do a lot better to concentrate 100 per cent upon a guarantee of "absolute victory" as soon as possible than to distract our attention with arguments concerning ultimate peacetime bargaining.

Commander Waring, in particular, made a great hit with his declaration that what's coming will have to be a "dictated" rather than a "negotiated" peace.

Everybody understood what that meant—that the United Nations will do the dictating, with the Axis powers denied the right to a single chirp on a negotiational basis. From that thesis there is no dissent.

The difficulty, however, is that the United Nations' spokesmen are likely to have considerable negotiating to do among themselves. If they get into a premature wrangle involving their own respective countries' ultimate policies, it will tend to disunite their joint military effort while the fight rages.

Having won, as Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana remarks, it will be the permissible juncture for us to disagree as to the balance of eternity.

I have previously had occasion to observe that Uncle Sam and John Bull can't imaginably clash for a long, long time, but the U. S. A. and Russia may be on precarious terms for quite a spell after the current rumpus wears off. Their rival philosophies are too conflicting. Senator Wheeler says so also.

What About China?

And China? Chiang Kai-shek seems democratic, but how long will he last? His civilized folk are wonderful people, but how generally are they civilized?

Senator C. M. Reed of Iowa is authority for the contention that it's a "damned sight better to win the war than to start discussing peace." The proposition is that, if the latter's done overly early, it simply will DELAY peace.

The issue isn't solely international, either.

Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the United States Social Security board maintains that now is the ideal moment to establish an economic Utopia in our own land—no more hard times ever again, no more unemployment, no more family hardship.

President Walter D. Fuller of the Curtis Publishing company gives this dope the ha-ha, on the ground that it involves universal national insurance, and that a satisfactory form of which is absolutely impossible.

Albert Linton, who, as president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company, ought to know what he's talking about, agrees with Walter Fuller.

Insurance, points out Linton, has to be paid for by its prospective beneficiaries. They don't get any extra money out of it, though it may finally be remitted to them when they especially need some accumulated savings to fall back upon.

Must Foot Bill.

The Providence Mutual official conceded that it may be a blessing thus in the course of two or three more generations, but they will have footed the bill for it meanwhile.

According to financiers like Commander Waring, Presidents Fuller and Linton and Senators Wheeler and Reed, we won't be much better off for it, on an average. Indeed, we will be worse off, pessimists allege, as the pinch sets in.

Experts such as Chairman Altmeyer of USSSB deny that there will be a pinch, but it will be a wonder if there isn't.

The experts' reasonable argument is that our only national method of paying off our federal indebtedness, theoretically by degrees, will be by enormous issues of unguaranteed greenback currency, which will look pretty but will be pretty shy on buying value.

Health and Diet

Progress and Hope

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

APPROACHING President Roosevelt's annual celebration, which he very properly and intelligently dedicates to a thought about the disease of infantile paralysis, this column takes the opportunity to discuss the program in the treatment of this condition.

Unquestionably all interest has been centered upon the Kenny treatment, which consists in re-education of the paralyzed muscles—in the first stage the use of hot water packs or towels over the paralyzed muscles and in a later stage, commanding the patient to use muscles that are paralyzed. All credit must be given to Miss Elizabeth Kenny, who is a nurse—not a doctor—and who has convinced the medical profession of North America and Great Britain that it is possible to rehabilitate muscle groups by external heat and voluntary control by command.

The process of such re-education in the poliomyelitis victim is not easy. Not minutes, but hours and days and weeks are spent in teaching the patient to move one little muscle of the hand, or of the foot, or of the arm or of the leg.

Hope of Great Success.

The teacher must be patient beyond all human conception of patience; the victim also must be helpful. But one day both teacher and pupil find that the muscle they have been working on does really work. And then patience is replaced by enthusiasm. From that point onward they can work together and accomplish the results that are seen in every Kenny Clinic.

Even the most hard-boiled of my colleagues have been convinced that method holds out hope for great success. I have been interested in one little chap myself since a year and one-half ago. He has regained the use of muscle groups that I would have been prepared to swear would never be useful again.

All this indicates a fundamental principle of medical practice, which is that medical advance does not occur in a minute. The medical profession is not prepared to state, as soon as one new treatment is suggested, that it is universally successful. We have been fooled too often; there have been too many sensational new treatments which have proved all too often to be disappointing.

Acute and Residual Stages.

But the Kenny method of treatment of infantile paralysis appears to have stood the test of time, and while it does not make revolutionary changes in the patient, it can be recommended both in the acute and the residual stages for anyone who is doubtful about trying it.

Not only in the field of treatment but in our knowledge of the transmission of the disease from one person to another progress is being made. I have a deep conviction that owing to the stimulus of our president's condition and his intelligent interest in research along this line, we are on the verge of great developments.

Dave Boone Says:

THEREFORE take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? Or what shall we drink? Or, wherewithal shall we be clothed? . . . For your heavenly father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first the kingdom of God, . . . and all these things shall be added unto you. Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself."

It was this passage from Matthew that Eddie Rickenbacker and the others put their main dependence on when lost in the Pacific, and as Eddie gives the story in Life magazine, telling how food and rain water came to them as they prayed, it is one to move all men to new heights of faith.

* * *

The coming of the black squall, as if guided to them by an unseen hand, deluging them with water when they were almost dead of thirst, is one to silence all who lack faith in prayer.

* * *

There were some skeptics in those rubber boats and at least one agnostic. But they are believers now. They believe in miracles as they never before believed in anything in their lives. And if you can read their stories and still be in any doubt you're pretty tough.

Pay-as-You-Go Income Tax Plan Subject of Much Misinformation

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—The protests of the treasury department against "forgiving" a year of taxes in any switch to the pay as you go system are quite understandable, though they are far from candid. It is also obvious that a good deal of misinformation has been supplied to the White House about this idea, judging from President Roosevelt's statement to the press.

Let's look at the thing a moment. From a bookkeeping standpoint, the treasury's contention that it would lose a year's revenue is absolutely correct. If, say, in collecting on the pay as you go system in 1944 the 1943 income taxes should be forgiven, obviously, so far as the books would show, the treasury has actually lost one year's income taxes.

If we project all our lives until death, the only difference it would make to each individual in his relations with the treasury, however, would be that at the time of his death his widow, or other heirs, would NOT owe the government for his income taxes for the previous year.

THIS is obvious if we just figure how we will change our income tax paying habits when the change comes, assuming it comes. Instead of paying the year's taxes in a lump sum on March 15, or dividing the lump sum into four quarterly installments, John Doe pays monthly installments, or perhaps even weekly installments.

True, he is paying for the current year instead of for the past year, but the total of taxes paid during each year will not change, except as the rates or his income change, at any time during John Doe's life. Up to the moment of his death, the treasury will not have taken any loss whatever on John Doe's income taxes as a result of the change in system.

If John Doe should die in January of any subsequent year, his widow will not have to pay ANY federal income taxes on his earnings in the preceding year. Whereas under the present system she would have to pay the entire income tax on his income for the preceding year.

If he dies in February or early March, the same thing would be true. Every taxpayer would be practically paid up on his income taxes all the time, assuming the proper amounts were deducted by John Doe's employers.

So at John Doe's death the treasury could figure that it had lost one year's taxes on his income. There are some complications, but we can ignore them.

OBVIOUSLY, then the treasury would actually be spreading this loss over a great many years—until the last income taxpayer alive when the change occurred had passed on.

The treasury says it cannot afford this loss, but NEVER talks about the sixty to eighty years over which it would be spread.

What is the alternative, assuming that we MUST have some sort of pay as you go plan?

Should the pay as you go system be adopted, can the taxpayers pay two years' taxes in a single twelve months?

Obviously, if they could, then the burden of taxes imposed for the year in question is far lighter than the country can stand, either economically or from the standpoint of morale! And surely the intent is to make them just as stiff as possible.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

Whether it passes or doesn't, you are going to hear a lot in the next two months or so about the pay-as-you-go income tax bill. In a series of three articles, Jacket Stinnett, Washington correspondent for The News-Journal explains what it is, why it has been proposed, and the objections being raised to it. Here is the first.

WASHINGTON—The new congress is America's mine-field. There are potential explosions almost any way you turn. But one that is almost certain to come off is the proposal to black out 1942 personal income taxes and start over on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Storm center of this proposal is the Capper-Carlson bill, now already in committee pigeon-holes in both the house and senate and assured of immediate action because both chambers are aware that something must be done before March 15—if anything is to be done at all.

Rep. Frank Carlson (R., Kan.), in introducing the bill in the house, emphasized his debt to Beardsley Ruml, New York City financier, author of the "Ruml plan." Senator Capper introduced the same bill in the senate. The Capper-Carlson bill is the Ruml plan in legislative language.

IT IS essential to get the taxpayer on a current basis, Mr. Carlson said. "There are only two ways of accomplishing that," he continued. "Either we can advance the tax payments one year—in other words move the tax clock ahead—or secondly, we can collect two years' taxes in one year or over a period of years. There are legitimate objections to either of those plans."

The Capper-Carlson bill would move the tax clock ahead—abolish the 1942 income tax indebtedness entirely and start the country's now 27,000,000 income tax payers on a current payment basis.

"Unfortunately," says Mr. Carlson, "many of our people have been led to believe that by setting the income tax clock a year ahead, they wouldn't be obligated for payment of current taxes. Everyone must realize that our federal treasury must have more tax revenue, not less."

THE Capper-Carlson bill is simplicity itself, so far as the taxpayer is concerned. It provides: (1) Forgetting all about tax payments on 1942 income; (2) Starting immediately this March 15 on a nine-a-year installments on taxes on income earned in 1943; (3) Making income tax payments on a tentative basis, with a year-end adjustment; (4) Giving relief provisions for those whose income varies from year to year (and providing for relief to those whose income status changes radically during the year; and (5) Giving fair treatment to all by making the new bill a blanket measure for all income taxpayers (rather than exempting merely the lower brackets as has been suggested in some circles.)

The taxpayers, or most of them certainly, would pay out just as much in income taxes, but with the important difference that they would be paying this month on what they earned this month—and in leaner years which are surely ahead, they would not be paying taxes on a big income when salaries are being slashed, stocks are not paying off, farm prices have taken a nose-dive.

Views of Postal Employes.

Editor News-Journal:

Your paper recently carried a news item concerning time and one-half overtime pay for postal employes. While this was labeled as time and one-half by congress which passed the bill on the last day of their session without debate, let us really look at the facts and see just what it amounts to.

A postoffice employe works 260 days per year to earn his salary. A person would naturally think that in order to figure his hourly rate you would divide his salary by the number of days worked in a year and in turn divide that amount by the number of hours worked per day and arrive at the hourly rate.

Congress has added a new wrinkle to this thing called simple arithmetic, in our case at least. They took the number of days the employe worked per year (260) and then added a hundred days. That makes 360 days per year. They then divided the employe's annual salary by that figure (360) and then divided that figure by the number of hours worked per day and then they had the employe's hourly rate. Now to give that employe time and one-half they would add half the hourly rate to itself and presto, they have time and one-half. That is exactly what they did to us.

The majority of the employes now earn eight and one-half cents more per hour at overtime rate than they do for working ordinarily. Yes, we are paid time and one-half for working on Saturday using congress's method for figuring it) or approximately 68 cents more in eight hours of overtime than we receive for working eight hours on a regular work day. Before this bill was passed, we received approximately fourteen and one-half cents less per hour for working overtime than we did for working regular time. Maybe this all seems queer to you but we are used to it, having been paid by congress for years.

We have not had a basic increase in pay since 1925. Once again during the coming year we will endeavor to get a bill through congress giving us that deserved increase. How many of you have not had any increase in pay during the last seventeen years?

This bill (dreamed up by congress on the last day of their session) was to have a dual purpose, increase the employe's earnings and reduce the manpower shortage. You have seen how our pay was increased. Let's see what they did about reducing the manpower shortage.

You now have extended Saturday delivery service and the postoffice windows are open six hours longer on Saturday. Your buses are cluttered with mail carriers on Saturday afternoon making that extra delivery which you really didn't want. Some of the employes now drive to work an extra day per week (using up rubber) to give you that extra service at a time when we should be reducing, instead of extending our services. Thus the manpower shortage was taken care of.

Luckily this bill is temporary in nature and there is a chance that the congress now in session may rectify the mistakes of the preceding congress. We sincerely hope so.

A Farmer's Diary

Destructive Rats

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I SAW a big gray rat run across the sunny Main street of our home city. It streaked between the feet of passersby, and disappeared into a basement. A young girl shrieked, and grabbed her companion's arm, pointing. A baggage man, unloading boxes in an alley, watched and grinned. I believe the girl, the baggage man and I were the only ones who noticed.

And that's the trouble! When the average person gets to realize that rats are among our deadliest enemies, to science and invention, sportsmanship and pride will combine to help exterminate them.

All through the ages rats have followed the trail of humans. They are the most prolific of all animals, producing litters of from 8 to 10 young every 60 days. An unmolested pair would produce 1500 in a single year—in three years, 360 millions. Lice thrive upon their filthy bodies, and carry plague and typhus.

A rat eats more food than a laying hen, and destroys 10 times as much as he eats. He is the star boarder; the fifth columnist that plays no favorites. He lives and thrives wherever food for humans is produced and stored—wherever he can pilfer. It is estimated that the number of rats in this country is greater than the human population. Wharves, dark alleys, cellars and basements of restaurants and groceries—barns, cribs and country houses are all infested.

It is computed that rats cost United States, for food alone, 200 millions a year. If we consider the disease they spread, the danger to public health, the cost is larger.

What to do about it? Let's wake up. Let's destroy rats in any and every way . . . by giving them no food; by repairing bins and cribs to shut them out; by hunting them for sport. Why isn't a rat as interesting a target as any other wild creature?

Rats are a link: in a vicious chain—war, rats, lice, typhus, plague. We shudder at the mental picture of European rats that follow the armies. The danger is that we forget to do something about the problem of rats nearer home.

MANSFIELDERS ATTEND WEDDING IN SALEM

Miss Evelyn Virginia Long, News-Journal Correspondent, Weds Dr. Kevin John Fay of Canada, In Ceremony This Morning.

OF INTEREST here and in Galion was the wedding this morning of Miss Evelyn Virginia Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Long, of Damascus, Ohio, and Dr. Kevin John Fay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fay, of West Roxbury, Mass. The single-ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Paul's Catholic church in Salem, by Rev. J. R. Gaffney, pastor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of ivory brocaded material, fashioned with a long train. Her tiered veil was finger-tip length, and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

Miss Virginia Boyd of Galion, sorority-sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a purple velvet gown, trimmed with chantilly lace at the neckline. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses. Dr. Frank P. Leckie of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, close friend of the bridegroom, was best man.

Music for the service included a vocal solo, "Because," by Wentz Alspaugh, and the traditional wedding marches.

A wedding breakfast was served to 75 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

Dr. and Mrs. Fay will go to the Laurentian mountains and Quebec, Canada, for their wedding trip. They will reside in Montreal where the bridegroom is serving his interneship at Montreal General hospital.

For the past 16 months the former Miss Long has been a resident of Galion, where she served as the first full-time librarian in the Junior and Senior high schools. She also has been correspondent for the Mansfield News-Journal, as well as the Marion Star and the Bucyrus Telegraph Forum for the past year. While in Galion she was active in several clubs, including the Study club.

The new Mrs. Fay was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university, where she majored in journalism and was affiliated with Pi Beta Phi and Pi Delta Epsilon sororities. She also attended the McGill university library school at Montreal.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Dartmouth college and McGill university medical school at Montreal. While enrolled at Dartmouth he belonged to Alpha Delta Phi and Sphinx senior society.

Guests from Mansfield, Galion, Bowersville, Boston, Montreal, Detroit, and Phoenix, Ariz., attended the wedding.

Seven Delegates Represent Local YWCA At Meet

The Hotel Statler in Cleveland served as headquarters for the annual meeting of the Foreign Division of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. which was attended by seven Mansfield delegates on Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the sessions was "Can a People's War Result in a World of Free Peoples, and What Part Should the Y. W. C. A. Play?"

Mrs. Vera Micheles Dean of New York City, editorial and research director of the Foreign Policy association was the principal speaker at the Friday evening session, her topic being "After Victory, What?"

A forum on "A World of Free Peoples" attracted a large audience Saturday evening, with Dr. Alfred B. N. Lieu of the China Institute in America, Dr. Walter M. Kotschnig, professor of Smith college, and Dr. Humbert Herring, director of the committee on Cultural Relations With Latin America, as speakers.

The closing session Sunday afternoon featured an address by Dr. Henry Van Dusen of the Union Theological Seminary.

Those attending from Mansfield were: Miss Bertha A. Gregory, Mrs. Jessie Crane, Mrs. Earl Kochheiser, Mrs. H. W. Peterson, Mrs. J. K. Linsenmayer, Mrs. Mina L. Nase, and Miss Marguerite Beck.

Have Surprise Birthday Party

Friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Nina Guinther at her home on South Adams street Sunday evening, in honor of her birthday. A 6:00 o'clock dinner was served from a long table decorated with a pink and white birthday cake.

Diversion of the evening was bingo. Those in attendance were Mrs. Thelma Sowers of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shumaker and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Shumaker and daughters of Bellville, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nalezinek and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wharton and daughter of this city.

Hazeltine Home Scene Of Party For Miss Crowl

Members of the Mansfield Treble choir held a handkerchief shower Friday evening to honor Miss Margaret Crowl who leaves Tuesday morning for Key West, Fla., to make her home temporarily with her sister, Mrs. Arent Sjurson. Mrs. Thurza Hazeltine, 671 Highland avenue, director of the choir, was hostess assisted by choir officers, the Misses Billie McQuillen, president; Mary Palmer, vice president, and Ruth McKee, treasurer.

Prizes for the quiz contest were awarded to the Misses Shirley Rankin and Nancy Twitchell. Mr. Hazeltine entertained the 32 girls with movies including local scenes which he had taken. New officers, elected at the last business meeting, gave brief talks.

Another farewell party was given last week for Miss Crowl by the First Presbyterian church choir after their rehearsal at the First Baptist church. Mrs. L. G. Bergstrom and Mrs. A. LeMoine Derr were in charge of arrangements. The honoree was presented with a fountain pen from choir members.

Gracie Allen's Home Almanac

We must all conserve material these days. Uncle Sam has taken over as fashion leader and is doing a wonderful job.

Nowadays a patch on the elbow is as smart as an ostrich feather was during the Coolidge administration.

It's good to make over old clothes, too. I had an old suit of George's made into a tailored outfit for me and it looks fine. The only trouble is, it quivers every time I pass a poster of Dorothy Lamour.

Hats this season are perky and inexpensive. The big favorite is the wind-sock hat, which is nothing more or less than an old-fashioned nightcap with four weeks' training in ground school.

And you can laugh all you want, but with fuel rationing, heavy underwear is certainly coming back. Sarongs and sweaters have had their day here in Hollywood, but you may be sure the glamour queen of tomorrow will be known as "the Red Flannel Girl."

HAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Daniel Gregoria, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gregoria, 652 Johns avenue, was a guest last evening, in the home of his parents, in honor of his birthday. Twenty members of the family were gathered for the celebration. Luncheon was served and table appointments were in pink and white. A birthday cake centered the table.

Betty Landfair Feted At Party

Miss Betty Landfair was the guest of honor last evening at a dinner party in honor of her birthday, at the home of Miss Ruth Blumenschein, Wooster road.

In attendance were the Misses Marie Mitchell, Ladonna Harrison, June Rose, Betty Jean Janes, Helen Sauder, Ruth Sabl, Mildred Metz, and Wanda Tipper. Prizes in games and contests were won by Miss Harrison and Miss Sauder.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Jan. 26.

A day of exceptional opportunity for a determined effort to forge ahead on the road to success, is forecast from the most propitious of planetary auguries. There may be sudden windfalls in this connection but do not let these incite to reckless conduct.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare to make a bold attack on the rich fulfilment of their highest ideals, practical projects and purposes. Unusual enterprise and initiative, should assure the support of elders, employers, superiors and public officials.

A child born on this day should be splendidly equipped for an exceptional career in solid, productive and enduring lines.

CLUBWOMEN RECEIVE ADVICE ON PUBLICITY

Booklet Published By National League of Women Voters Contains Many Interesting Tips For Club Reporters.

MEMBERS of the Ohio League of Women Voters in Mansfield were the recipients, recently, of an interesting and informative booklet, entitled, "Tips on Publicity," prepared by the national league as an aid to local publicity chairmen, which has been deemed worthy of the attention of all clubwomen who at one time or another find it necessary to make a report to their newspapers.

The booklet opens with a statement from Frank Hayes of the Chicago Daily News, to the effect that "News is some fact that will make a room full of people drop whatever they are doing, sit up and say, 'Can you beat that!'"

"Some people have a nose for news and some people don't," the book continues. "The keener your news nose, the sunnier your path as league publicity chairman will be. A lot of good feature material and legitimate news goes begging simply because someone doesn't know a story when she meets it."

A few of the tips offered to the woman who is handling club publicity follow:

To achieve the right kind of newspaper publicity, your material must be dignified, truthful, accurate, and rest upon facts that can be readily proved. Finally, it must be interesting, or there will be no publicity.

Club activities which have a political significance can be taken with confidence to the news room, where a few words with the city editor and an oral explanation to the reporter who will handle it will often tremendously increase its chance of getting into print. A good speech by a newsworthy speaker on a timely subject falls into the news category.

What's going on today is the biggest news in today's newspaper. If the event is important, tomorrow's coverage also will be good. After that your story is a dead dodo, and if you missed the boat you'd better go out and get a new angle, or dig up a new story.

Take a meeting, for instance. A gathering of people—if there are enough of them and a few of them are important people (names make news)—is always good for a few lines of type. The bigger the gathering, the more important the people and novel the program, the better the story. But, remember, no meeting is news two or three days after it happened!

A good pattern to follow in handling publicity for a local event is an announcement at least a week in advance, follow up with a story on the speaker, roundup story on the day of the event, and a "covering" story for release as soon as the event has taken place.

Fifty thousand words of publicity material go into the wastebasket daily in some newspaper offices. So before you turn in a piece, think: Is it a good story? Would you print it if you were editor? Are the facts honest and accurate? Think twice before submitting a shoddy piece of material.

In closing the pamphlet suggests: "When it's all over and you're being congratulated on your fine publicity and feeling happy and justly so, remember to say thank you to the editor. Say it in a letter because it will take less of his time than a call. Editors are human and respond to kind words, too."

Summed up, the communication urges publicity chairmen to learn the five W's of news writing: Who did it, or to whom did it happen? What happened? When did it happen? Where did it happen? Why did it happen? (or how?).

Dark Hosiery Launches New War-Time Vogue

From the bare leg days of last summer, fashion's war-time favor has turned now, to the "opaque" look for milady's hosiery.

Dark rayon stockings—in navy, black, brown and taupe—are meeting with approval in a conservation-economy fashion era, and heavier weights rather than sheers are the order of the day.

Prominent designers who launched the new vogue, and women who have led the trend toward the new darker hose declare that stockings matched to a dark costume produce an unusually striking and slimming effect. The result is an all-in-one look with an unbroken color line from dress to shoes.

The heavier weight rayon stocking are designed to look like ingrains, being knit in fine gauge instead of the coarse gauge usually used for heavy weight stockings. In addition, these heavier stocking are cited for their long-wearing qualities.

While the dramatic dark stockings are the extreme of the new fashion, it is felt that the "opaque" look of heavy-weight, fine knit hosiery is definitely a new trend. "Covered up" instead of "bare-looking" legs are destined to become part of the new subdued elegance for this era of practical, duration-minded clothes.

Idyll Club Presents Gift To Mrs. Shade

PREPARING END PLAYS

It cannot be emphasized too strongly or too often that a different kind of preparation is required for a successful lead-throwing end-play at No Trump from that necessary in the case of a suit contract. With the latter, if you compel the leading opponent to put forth a suit in which you have no cards, in either dummy or your own hand, while you have at least one trump in each holding, or else lead into a tenace, the play works. At No Trumps, you must eliminate everything from the enemy's hand except the suit or suits in which you have cards into which you wish him to lead.

	♠ A J 7 ♥ 6 4 2 ♦ K Q 5 ♣ J 10 7 5
♠ 9 6 5 ♥ A K 10 8 3 ♦ 10 6 4 3 ♣ 9	N W E S	♠ K Q 8 2 ♥ Q J 7 5 ♦ 8 7 2 ♣ 6 4

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
1 ♥	2 ♣	2 ♥	3 ♣
Pass	4 ♣	Pass	5 ♣

In that rubber bridge contract, South made his goal by getting the entire heart and diamond suits out of his own holdings, so that, if an opponent later led them, he would have to furnish a ruff and discard to the declarer—a method which would not work if his contract were No Trumps.

West led his heart K and then saw South run the A. Two clubs were taken, a heart ruffed and then three diamonds cashed. This left not a solitary red card in either the dummy or the closed hand. Then the spade 10 was led, East winning with the Q.

What could East do? The declarer didn't care. If he had a heart or diamond to return, the dummy could ruff and South's last losing spade could be discarded. If he sent back a spade, it would be up in the tenace of the A-J. In that case, it would make no difference whether East or West held the K. So the contract was safely home.

If South had been in a No Trump contract, East could have led either a diamond or a heart with safely. A lead-throwing end-play would not have worked then unless East had to return a spade into the A-J.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

It took all my will power to keep my dismay at Philip Veritzen's ultimatum from showing in my face. Characteristically the great impressario had "taken the bit between his teeth," and was running away with the problem of Stephen Redfield in such fashion as to endanger my father's carefully laid scheme to keep the actor in ignorance for a few days that his subversive activities had been discovered.

And I had been the cause of Veritzen's decision when I told him of the recent altercation between Noel and Redfield, yet I felt that I had no choice. It would have been dynamite for Noel to discover that Redfield's telephone call was to Mary, not to me as I had led him to believe to protect Mary, and I had been compelled to tell Noel's father in confidence of my deception.

Promise to Redfield.

"Oh, I am sure Redfield is safe until tomorrow," I said. "He is resting on my assurance that he will have his role back tomorrow night if he is able to appear. Besides, my father has an operative trailing him who will effectively prevent his appearing at the theater or getting near Mary and Noel."

"Good!" he said. 'Then you assured him he would have his role tomorrow night?"

"Yes," and I put apology into my voice. "I see now I was presumptuous, but I did not dream there would be any other arrangement."

"You were not at all presumptuous," he said. "And your assurance would have held true as long as your father wished to have Redfield kept in the role, if this unfortunate situation had not developed. But I cannot risk having a murderous monomaniac running loose in the theater and stirring up Noel, who is little better where Mary is concerned, to possible tragedy.

"No, I must get rid of him right away, although I am sorry to have to nullify your promise to Redfield. But when I tell him he's through tomorrow, I will let him think it is a sudden decision, and that you know nothing about it."

"Thank you," I said, "and now I really must go along."

I was delayed by Philip Veritzen's formal leave-taking, but at last I was walking to the elevator, mulling over how best to tell my father of this latest threat to his plans involving Redfield. But first I went to the floor where Stephen Redfield had been placed in a temporary apartment.

As I expected, Winters was standing outside the door, and from a bend in the corridor I summoned him softly. He came to me quickly and silently.

Guard Instructed.

"You will not need to go back to Mrs. Veritzen's apartment," I told him. "Redfield is the man of whom we were afraid. Please keep on his trail until one of my father's men relieves you or brings further instructions. We do not care what Redfield does, except that he must not be permitted to go to the theater or get near Mr. or Mrs. Noel Verizen or the elder Veritzens."

"I'll take care of him," Winters said grimly, and I was sure Redfield's cowardly actions had disgusted Winters, and that the guard would relish any chance to make things unpleasant for him.

"Thank you," I said. "My father will get in touch with you later."

"I'll be here, or behind that exit door between here and the elevator," he said.

"That is fine," I told him, and went to my own apartment. With a feeling of having reached sanctuary I entered it, when my father admitted me, and I was breathing as if I had been running.

"Sit down, Margaret, before you try to talk," my father said, after a keen look at my face. "Something has happened to upset you."

Sport Podge by REX HESS

When it comes to gathering around and figuring out all the angles in an attempt to gain an edge over the opposition, this year's bunch of Rambunctious Rams of Madison high school are in a class by themselves.

Friday night when Coach Al Fendrick went into the Ram dressing room, just before the game with Union, he found all his noble athletes wearing chunks of tape across their noses.

"What is the meaning of all this tape on the nose?" the puzzled Fendrick naturally inquired of his heroes.

"We are doing this to fool the foe," was their quick response.

"And how do you expect to fool anyone by putting tape on your noses?" persisted Fendrick.

"Why," he was told, "if Union uses a man-for-man defense against us, and they start counting noses, they will not be able to tell which nose is which."

They didn't explain how the Unions were going to mistake tall Doc Poston for little Harold Hammer and vice versa. But it was a noble experiment.

But Union fooled 'em. They used a zone defense, and the Rams could have been the masked marvels for all the good their disguises could do them.

Now this, so Operative Whizzer White informs me, is not the first time the Rams have had a mass brainstorm, and gone in for personal camouflage for purposes of deceiving the enemy.

When they first started training for bucketball away last autumn, they each and every one went out and got themselves butch haircuts, even the student managers, down to the little fellows in the eighth grade.

"Of course," says Whizzer, "they may have wanted to keep the hair out of their eyes, but I do not see why a student manager should be so concerned about a little hair in the eye."

One of the managers, Howard Shaw, will soon be able to make use of his butch haircut on the bucketball floor, trading jobs with Doc Poston who becomes ineligible this week for the Ram quintet.

Shaw, who has been a manager for four years, will put on a basketball uniform, and Poston will take over the managerial job. And both of them are worried.

Neither is worried about how he'll perform his new duties, but how his substitute will carry out his old chores.

Rockets, Falcons Rate High

Toledo and Bowling Green Gain Cage Reputations.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—That a large student body, a roomy fieldhouse, membership in a potent conference or even a huge stadium debt isn't needed to build a basketball reputation is evidenced by the records established this season by some of the smaller schools.

* * *

Playing in the shadows cast by their bigger and more widely known brethren, they are compiling triumphs with all the speed of a Russian army.

Right now Bowling Green and Toledo university, a pair of Ohio schools, have records of 15-1 and 10-1, respectively—and their teams probably are no better or worse than those of Western Michigan; Maryville, Mo., Teachers; East Central Oklahoma State; Southwestern, Kas.; Texas Wesleyan; Hamline of St. Paul; Rhode Island State; Glenville, W. Va., State; Western Kentucky; Duquesne; East Washington of Cheney; and Whittier.

Toledo started the season with a new coach, a freshman squad and very little hope.

The new mentor, Burl Friddle, is a product of Indiana, and what the Toledo partisans didn't know was that virtually every member of the bumper frosh crop was all-something or other in the Hoosier state the previous year.

The all-freshman five knit into a unit in time to hand Dartmouth its only defeat of the year and already Davage Minor, 6-foot 2-inch Negro, is being rated superior to the famed Bob Gerber of a year ago.

Examinations which occupied a majority of the nation's cagers the past week will keep most of them from action again in the coming six days.

However, both Illinois and Indiana battered Iowa to remain deadlocked at the top of the Big Ten standings while Southern California continued its romp in the southern half of the Pacific Coast conference with the 41st straight victory over the University of California at Los Angeles.

Kansas, winner of 12 straight before bowing to Camp Crowder, holds its Big Six edge after Iowa State took a surprising wallop from oft-beaten Missouri. Pennsylvania, with seven wins in eight starts, heads the Ivy league with two consecutive triumphs.

George Washington hasn't met its equal in the Southern conference although both Duke and North Carolina State have moved into a three-way tie with idle Virginia Military for second.

* * *

Kentucky has things its own way in the Southeastern loop and entertains Vanderbilt tonight before visiting Alabama Saturday. Creighton, its win streak halted by the Great Lakes outfit, tops the Missouri Valley conference.

Washington Wins Seven Straight

(By Associated Press)

Although they scored only one goal in a pair of games over the week-end, the four newcomers wearing the regalia of the Washington Lions of the American Hockey league sparked the Capital City team to successive triumphs.

The Lions had won only seven games all season until the revamped club made its first appearance Saturday night and battered Pittsburgh, 5 to 2. Then they moved over to Indianapolis for a 5 to 2 decision.

The Buffalo Bisons drew with Cleveland Saturday night, 1 to 1, and plastered a 5 to 1 set-back on Pittsburgh Sunday. They now have gone nine games without a defeat.

Providence hopped into third place on the strength of its 7 to 4 verdict over Cleveland while Pittsburgh and Indianapolis each lost twice over the week-end.

Hershey strengthened its first place position Saturday night by humiliating Indianapolis, 7 to 2.

HUNTS HORSES FOR RACE TRACK FANS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. —(INS)— Mayor Leo McLaughlin, who 10 years ago initiated the move to draw race horses to Oaklawn Park, was engaged in another horse roundup today, this time to solve the wartime gasoline and rubber shortage for the Feb. 28 opening of the track.

"I'm going to try to get all those who own 'Old Dobbins' to fetch them from the hay and clover fields, polish up the old harness and hitch them to any movable conveyance so that we can get the patrons to Oaklawn Park," the mayor said. "It should be easy."

Ohio College Meet Planned

Effort Made To Bring In All Track Teams.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Plans to bring 19 members of the Ohio conference, and the state's unaffiliated colleges, together this spring for the first all-Ohio collegiate track and field championships, were in the making today.

* * *

The Ohio Association of Track Coaches, headed by Miami university's George Rider, urged at its annual meeting yesterday that the state's spring sports program be enlarged and intensified instead of curtailed.

Ed Barker of Duncan Falls, secretary-treasurer, said the first three finishers in each event at the Ohio conference cinder meet in mid-way would be invited to compete against all comers from the non-conference schools a week later, probably at Columbus or Delaware. George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan athletic chief, was named to ascertain sentiment of non-league schools for such a wide-open competition from which both team and individual state champions would emerge.

A resolution urging enlargment of the track program was adopted. It was drawn up by W. J. Livingston of Denison university, Dwight L. Salzman of Greenville high school, and William A. Satterlee of Akron South.

The track mentors voted to hold their annual clinic at Ohio State university the moring of March 27, the day the state high school basketball tourney ends here.

Barney Ross Gets Trophy

Given Neil Award For Guadalcanal Action.

NEW YORK — (INS) — The Edward J. Neil Memorial trophy, which was awarded by the New York Boxing Writers' association to Corp. Barney Ross for the ex-ringman's heroic 14-hour stand at Guadalcanal, will be accepted for the one-time lightweight champ, Feb. 17, by Colonel Harvey J. Miller, of the United States Marine corps, it was revealed today.

In making the announcement, Lieut. Gen. Thomas Holcomb, commandant of the marine corps, said Colonel Miller was authorized to take a four-day leave to accept the trophy, and to forward it after the presentation ceremonies, to the morale officer, headquarters, marine corps.

Colonel Miller was once president of the National Boxing association, and upon completion of his term in 1940, was named permanent executive secretary of that organization. He has been ranked among the greatest boxers ever seen in the navy, having held the lightweight and featherweight titles for years while he was in service afloat.

Approves Pitt Grid Policy

Shaughnessy Will Not Guarantee Winners.

By ARDEN SKIDMORE

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Clark D. Shaughnessy, expected to be named shortly as the new football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, declares he is in a perfect agreement with Pitt's de-emphasized policy and "will not guarantee to win any game—or percentage of games"—if he takes the job.

* * *

Students on the Pitt campus were overjoyed at the probability of the 50-year-old wizard of the "T" formation taking charge of the Panthers and, despite Shaughnessy's statements, they feel that they had a coach building for the future.

Football fans in Pittsburgh were confronted with the baffling situation of being without a coach for any of their major schools.

Dr. Eddie Baker, coach at Carnegie Tech, disclosed he would report Feb. 10 as a navy lieutenant, while Aldo T. (Buff) Donelli, pilot of the fast-stepping Duquesne Dukes, said he had applied for a navy commission and did not expect to be with his gridders in 1943.

Both Duquesne and Tech—the latter without a single member of its coaching staff left—plan to continue football, although negotiations for coaches haven't been started.

Shaughnessy, huddling with Athletic Director James Hagan of Pitt over the week-end, replied to a question about the deflated Pitt setup which led to Jock Sutherland's resignation in 1939:

* * *

"If I come to Pitt, it will be with the firm understanding that I receive a full professorship and that I do the best I can with the players available and under the conditions the school presents."

He denied as "absurd' a report he was to receive a $20,000 salary to coach at Pitt.

"No football coach is worth that much," he snapped.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Eddie Gordon, the old Olympic broad jumper, finds a strong similarity between Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Knute Rockne. "He gets closer to his men than most leaders—like Rockne," says Gordon, who was on the 1928 Olympic team when MacArthur ran the show. . . And the general apparently doesn't have any more use for a "good loser" than Rock did.

HANDY ANDY

When the East Helena, Mont., semi-pro baseball team needed a pitcher, infielder and outfielder last summer, it reached out to the nearby town of Townsend and brought in Buzz Brisbin, who filled all three spots—one at a time, of course. . . . Brisbin went back to high school in the fall, starred in six-man football and when the school lost its basketball coach to the army, Buzz took over that job, too, besides playing center. . . The team won three games before being stopped and Brisbin hung up 53 points.

You can't tell what will happen to a major league ball player after he signs up with Uncle Sam Records of the National semi-pro baseball congress show that Joe Gantenbein, a weak hitter with the Athletics, socked three consecutive home runs for Fort Riley, Kas., during the 1942 sandlot tournament but Cecil Travis, ex-Washington clouter who played for Camp Wheeler, Ga., was only 22nd in the hitting list.

DONELLI ENLISTS

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Aldo T. (Buff) Donelli, football coach and athletic director at Duquesne university, takes his first physical examination today for a commission as athletic instructor in the navy.

PLAN CHAMPIONSHIP SERVICE CAGE TILT

ROCKFORD, Ill. —(INS)— A post season basketball game between the Camp Grant Warriors, rated as the best service quintet in the country, and the Great Lakes Bluejackets was being planned today.

Lieut. Col. Frank A. Bush, Camp Grant special officer, said the game with the Sailors may be played as part of a benefit basketball double header in the Chicago stadium early in March.

Cap Leaps To Ohio Cage Top

Protects Position By Taking Vacation.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Capital university's Lutherans, catapulted to the peak in the state-wide and Ohio conference basketball standings last week as Bowling Green and Mount Union met stunning defeats, will stay up there for at least another week.

Coach Bill Bernlohr's boys will shun the hardwoods until Feb. 2, devoting their time to mid-year exams and retaining their status as Ohio's one and only undefeated college squad.

The other 39 squads, also concentrating on the books, play only 13 games Monday through Friday this week, but blossom out Saturday with a 12-game program. The 25 contests include six in the Ohio conference, and 10 against out-of-state opponents. So far this season the Buck teams hold a 34-31 edge over foreign foes in games won and lost.

Mount Union, defending state and conference champion, fell twice last week—to Kent State and Wooster — while Bowling Green, after winning 14 in a row, bowed to Youngstown's scintillating Penguins led by sharpshooting Leo Mogus.

Those results swept the last of Capital's opposition out of the "clean" class. Along with Mount Union, first conference defeats were suffered by Wittenberg, Oberlin and Ohio Northern, leaving only Capital, Muskingum, Baldwin Wallace and Toledo undefeated in the circuit.

Hoosiers Go After Loop Lead

Meet Hawks Again In Big Ten Game.

CHICAGO—Indiana university guns for undisputed possession of the Big Ten basketball lead tonight when it faces Iowa at Iowa City in the headline contest of a three game conference card.

* * *

In other games Ohio State plays the second game of its series with Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., and Northwestern opposes Minnesota at Minneapolis. In a non-conference encounter Chicago will be placed on the slaughtering block by Great Lakes.

Indiana, which has been forced all season to play "second fiddle" to Illinois' great cage combination, pushed its way squarely into the front ranks as a title threat Saturday night when it trounced Iowa 71 to 55 to establish a new conference scoring record.

The 71 points the "Hurrying Hoosiers" rank up was the greatest single game total in the league's 38-year history. The highest previous total was 69 points, scored by Purdue in 1937 at the expense of Indiana and equalled a year ago by Northwestern in a game against Chicago.

The record was the second scoring mark established this season. Early in the campaign Wisconsin and Northwestern rolled up 132 points for the highest game aggregate.

Indiana was regarded as dangerous contender for the crown that went to Illinois before Saturday's game. After the contest the Hoosiers became a full-fledged menace.

Ralph Hamilton's 31 points for Indiana was the second greatest scoring spree ever made in the Big Ten. Bill Hapac of Illinois holds the record with 34 points, set in 1940 against Minnesota.

Ohio State pulled one of the season's big surprises when it edged Purdue 34 to 32 to climb into a five-way tie for the runner-up spot in the race. A field goal in the final minute of play by sophomore guard Ken Eichwald furnished the Buckeyes their winning margin.

Western Michigan wasn't extended as it hung another defeat, 56 to 40 on the long string the Chicago team owns.

Lantz Has Best Yearly Average

G. Lantz turned in the best average of the year, 42.3 per cent, in the 30-yard, off hand matches of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader club, while E. Adams was second with 39.6 and E. Light third with 29.1.

S. Bushman had the lowest average string with 2.34 inches in seven matches, and A. Wagner shot the shortest string, 1.25 inches from center for three shots.

In 50 yard shooting, John Baldinger kept his average down to 2.75 inches in 52 matches, and also had the shortest string of .83 inches from center for the added distance of three shots.

* * *

In Saturday's matches, Lantz took the 30-yard event with 59.9 per cent with L. Church second at 55.4 and A. Wagner third at 40.

In a 1-shot match Lantz was first, Baldinger second and Cy Hassinger third.

In 50-yard rest matches, shooting for group Hassinger was first with .28 inches, Baldinger second at .66 and E. Adams third at .88. Adams led in string measure with 1.76 inches for three shots, Baldinger had 2.03 and Hassinger 2.22.

PUTS DIAMOND IN SHAPE FOR CUBS

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind. —(INS)—Bobby Dorr, superintendent at Wrigley Field, was expected to arrive in French Lick Springs today to start construction on the spring training diamond for the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs' practice field will be near the bathhouse of the French Lick Springs hotel. The Chicago White Sox will train nearby.

MT. VERNON GIRL LEADS PIN TOURNEY

SANDUSKY—(AP)—Beulah Perkins of Mount Vernon, with a score of 539, led the singles division today in the 14th Annual Women's Inter-city association bowling tournament. The event started yesterday and ends next week end.

Revive Old Sport---Fencing For Defense

Many colleges are including fencing in their athletic activities as this ancient sport comes back into favor as an ideal means of keeping fit for any kind of defense work. Pictured are two New York university co-eds staging a lively "duel." At N. Y. U. students may substitute fencing for general calisthenics, swimming, basketball or any of the sports on the intramural program.

In live way, he thought of ing happened on the day rmistice, though actually, it had not. The specific the great division was 919. That was the day nustered out. That was that really was the end, beginning.

"Well, and I will," said Ruby. "You're perfectly right. I'll get right after that."

"Your niece, for instance. I suggest that your niece teach him. She speaks well enough, for an American. Or there are professional tutors whose services—"

Ruby had interrupted. "Clara," she was saying meditatively. "That's an idea. After all, some good might as well come of four years of dramatic school—or was it five? It was so long ago, poor Clara . . ."

But that idea was one that Ruby was still holding in reserve, and Hobey had heard nothing of it yet. All in good time.

During a lull in the adventures and activities of that same evening, he was seen wandering purposefully through the labyrinths of Ruby's house, looking—as he explained when asked—for writing paper and an envelope. Everybody tried to help, as everybody always did. Look there, they said, look in the table drawer, look in the other room. Ask Totty, or ask Clara. Ruby would know, of course, if Ruby hadn't gone to work. Well, try the kids, maybe they had a pad of school paper, would that do? Voices intermingled; fingers pointed every which way; people jumped up out of chairs and joined the hunt themselves; and Momma kept saying. "What's this? What's all this? What's Archie looking for?" "His name's Hobey, Momma," everybody told her, for the hundredth time, "and he's just looking for some writing paper and envelopes." 'Hopes what?" Momma cried. "Archie! What's the matter with you? Why don't you just sit down and rest yourself?"

He found some paper ultimately. He already had a pencil, which he felt was one good thing He located a quiet corner, after further search, and settled down to serious composition.

He began with Ruby's street address, and added, "New York City, New York, N. Y." out of the fulness of his heart, and under that the date. His salutation was "Dear Sadie," as it always was when he wrote home. This was diplomacy—this was because his father couldn't read, and it might make him mad to get a letter.

Hobey continued:

"Well, how are you Sadie & all of you? The above is where I am now and will likely be in N Y City from now on, now the war is over & I am out, I have a job here I am in civvies now since this afternoon & they feel funny believe me and I guess look funny. It is a long time since I wrote, I guess not since the first time I was over to Brest, France, did you get that letter, I was not allowed to say what port then as the war was still going on but that was where it was, we landed troops there. I was there 5 times in all & back & forth, then I had the flu or Spanish influenza & did not get to go again, it was Nov 3 or 4 I for get which I came down with it & so then was in sick bay till Dec, I was pretty sick. I did not even know the war was over for a while after it was"

Here a bright new page of the borrowed notepaper confronted him, as pink as face powder. Hastily he started a new paragraph:

"How do you like this paper I am writing on, some paper, it is not mine as you see from the R but was all I could find around. This is a big house I am living in now, have been here just since today, I was at Pelham Bay Receiving Station before that, while I was waiting for my discharge papers to come through, it took 5 weeks. Forgot to say I got well from the flu all O. K. & am fine now, so I was lucky, some I knew were not. Now I am all set to begin this new job which is . . ."

Now what? His pencil halted; and presently he took a cigaret instead, and sat back smoking it and trying to think. This part of the letter had been the principal and zestful purpose of the whole, when he began to write. Now, however, he perceived the unforseen dilemma—now it seemed to him that it was going to be impossible to make his people understand the job, the house, the family, who Ruby was, or what she did, or where she worked, or even why she was Miss Ruby Mallory when she was married.

He sought a synonym for "cabaret"; rejected "restaurant," as almost equally recondite from the island point of view; and in the end could think of nothing except "place to eat and drink." This was a sorry understatement, and particularly since it would be wiser to omit "and drink," remembering his father. He felt discouraged by the whole problem, and at the same time somewhat awed to recognize its implications. Home was a long way off, all right. A long way back. It wasn't just the clothes, it was the language, it was everything.

He gave it up, eventually. He wrote instead:

" . . . a good job with some fine people I know here, to be handy man etc. around their house, then I will maybe help with driving their cars too, they have 3 cars. So you see I will be all right & O K. so do not worry. Will be at the above address at least at first & then will let you know where I move to so as you can always write. Would like to hear from you anyway, what is the news, you did not tell me in your last, were all the summer people there last summer, only I guess Mr. Hastings & family were not, were they? Do you know if Rosalie . . ."

But he erased that last. They wouldn't know a thing, or they'd have written him.

Explosion Rips Furnace Room In Bucyrus School Building.

BUCYRUS — Cause of the fire which destroyed a storage cupboard and its contents and caused the explosion of a nearly empty soap drum in the furnace room of the high school is still undetermined by Fire Chief William F. Mader.

Little damage other than the loss of the cupboard and soap drum was caused by the blaze which was discovered when janitors were attracted to the basement by the sound of the explosion, after school Friday.

WED IN KANSAS CITY

BUCYRUS — Announcement was made Saturday of the marriage Jan. 4 in Kansas City of Miss Ruth Albright, daughter of Mrs. Mary Albright, Oakwood avenue and Ensign George Sens, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sens North Walnut street. Mrs. Sens, who accompanied her husband to San Francisco where he reported for duty aboard his ship, has returned to Bucyrus.

STOCK MARKET ADDS TO LAST WEEK'S CLIMB

Steel Buying Drops Below Year Ago on Production Requirement Plan.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market added fractions to last week's spotty recovery in today's early proceedings.

At a slow opening gainers of fractions included Bethlehem, American Telephone, Chrysler, International Harvester, J. I. Case, United Aircraft and International Nickel.

Trend analysts scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said steel buying currently was on a reduced scale and as much as 10 per cent under January, 1942, in some instances. This was attributed to reductions in allocations under "production requirements plan" and preliminary action toward shifting to the "controlled materials plan."

THEATERS

Swashbuckling Drama.

Hundreds of extras were employed to lend magnitude and color to the swashbuckling drama "The Black Swan," showing at the Ohio. Starring Tyrone Power, the picture, based on Rafael Sabatini's popular novel by the same name, presents a top-flight supporting cast including Maureen O'Hara, Laird Cregar, Thomas Mitchell and Anthony Quinn. Tale of a daring sea captain who sought to rid the seas of piracy at the request of a former pirate colleague the story deals with the days when men fought their way with swords and won fair ladies with gallant gestures.

South Sea Thriller.

"The Moon and Sixpence," Somerset Maugham's powerful drama of a conventional London stockbroker who fled business and society to live away the days painting on Tahitian sands continues at the Madison. Starring George Sanders in the leading role who abandoned his family for a native love although he professed to despise all women the picture presents Herbert Marshall, Doris Dudley, Eric Blore and Elena Verdugo in the supporting cast. "Wrecking Crew" with Chester Morris and Richard Allen is the co-feature.

Air Feature.

America's flying aces take to the air in "Thunder Birds," the Ritz attraction, featuring Preston Foster, John Sutton and Gene Tierney. Dealing with the efforts of a flying instructor to sprout wings on his young cadets, particularly on an English lad, the picture shows actual flight scenes taken at Arizona's famed Thunder Bird and Falcon field. Gene Tierney furnishes the romantic interest. "King of the Cowboys," starring Roy Rogers is the co-feature.

New Shocker.

"Bowery at Midnight," Bela Lugosi's new shocker at the Park, presents a Jekyll and Hyde story of a maniacal demon who poses as a college professor by day and follows gory pursuits in a Bowery mission at night. Tom Neal, Lew Kelly and Vince Barnett appear in the supporting cast.

DENIES RUMOR PLANE'S FOUND

Navy Declares Search Still Continues For Transport With 19 Aboard.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—The 12th Naval District said today that a thorough check had failed to confirm reports that the missing navy plane with 19 aboard, including Rear Admiral R. H. English, had crashed near Blue Lake, Cal.

The navy emphasized that wreckage of the plane has not been found either in the Blue Lake area or anywhere else. The statement added that a check of the report's source found it to be without foundation, the search is continuing, the navy said.

The report, said to have come from Homer Clark, Blue Lake postmaster, declared that the plane had crashed on land near Blue Lake as the pilot apparently was attempting to set the giant craft down on the lake.

Blue Lake is approximately 150 miles north of the Clear Lake country where the plane was reportedly sighted Thursday, and is about 250 miles north of San Francisco.

The plane, which left Honolulu Wednesday, reached San Francisco early Thursday and circled the bay area vainly for some time, unable to land because of adverse conditions.

Previously reports from ranchers and civilian aircraft spotters in the sparsely settled mountain area at the juncture of Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake counties, said "an unusually large airplane" was both seen and heard there early Thursday morning.

Those were coupled with a grim statement from Mr. and Mrs. Warner F. Young, who live northeast of Healdsburg, that they heard what they now believe to have been the sound of a plane crashing and exploding that morning in the dark hours before dawn.

This report was at variance, however, with one from Charles Adams, operator of a ranch 14 miles east of Cloverdale. Adams said he definitely saw a giant airplane "a little after 7 o'clock Thursday morning—when it was just getting light."

"The plane circled twice over my ranch," Adams said. "It was the biggest plane I ever saw. When last I saw it, it was headed for the general direction of Clear Lake."

Clear Lake, north of Adams' ranch, lies in a direct airline with the ranch and San Francisco. It has been used by the Pacific clipper planes as a secondary landing base on occasion when the regular base was not available.

A search of the Clear Lake area, however, failed to uncover any sign of the missing plane.

One of the 19 persons aboard the plane was Rear Admiral R. H. English, commander of U. S. submarines in the Pacific. Another was a navy nurse, only woman passenger. Three were navy captains, three commanders and two lieutenants. The other nine aboard were the clipper's civilian crew members.

HE'S YOUNGEST

Ex-Soldier Becomes Legionnaire At Age Of 18.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Kilbourn W. Hoke, 18, Chicago, was believed today to be the youngest member to be accepted into the American Legion as a veteran of the present war.

Hoke, who was presented to the Logan Square Post by his uncle, A. P. Radoll, a veteran of World War I, enlisted in the army at the age of 15 but was discharged because of his youth two days after Pearl Harbor and the declaration of war.

RESCUE PARTY HUNTS PLANE

Signs of Life Reported Near Plane Downed in Peru.

LIMA, Peru —(INS)— A rescue party made its way into the interior of Peru in search of a Pan-American Grace airlines plane which came down near Chala, 350 miles southeast of Lima, and was spotted from the air by a military plane.

The military plane crew reported that there were signs of life near the grounded aircraft which was believed to have descended after motor failure.

The missing plane, en route from Santiago, Chile, to Lima, had been overdue since Friday. Three of 11 passengers aboard and three of the four crew members were Americans. One Dutch and two British diplomatic officials were said to have been aboard.

HITS TAXPAYER 'BOTTLENECK'

Revenue Official Says Too Few File Income Tax Returns.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— William J. Champion, head of revenue field crews of the 18th Ohio district of the bureau of internal revenue, warned today that income taxpayers in 22 northern Ohio counties are going to create a serious "bottleneck" unless they begin making their returns shortly.

"We have set up machinery to handle all of the returns in smooth fashion," Champion said, "but the people just won't come in and make out their returns. They are apparently waiting for the Ruml or some other pay-as-you-go plan to go into effect."

He said results are "discouraging." Not more than 1,000 have filed returns in Cuyahoga county, he said.

ut oddly ough, even nice doesn't ow the real ry of how she her chance Hollywood!

In the days en Wall street s paved with ld, she was the eetheart of of the most famous speculas. After a couple of years he ed of her charms, but he apciated her finer qualities and itated to cast her off in the al manner of the broker with chorus girl.

o he called an executive of a tion picture company—a friend whom he'd given many a stock —and said:

'Look, I want you to give this l a screen test, and then give a six-month contract. I'll r her salary while she's with — just don't ever let her ow."

The next day, out of a clear , the pretty chorine was ofed a screen test. And as soon the test was processed and through once for decency's e, she was awarded a sixnth contract.

f course she and the Wall eeter both wept at the idea of ting, but he bravely refused tand in the way of her career l she left.

n Hollywood she served out six months in the familiar ion, until her test attracted ival film company, and she on her way—to more than ecade of top stardom. During e ten years her Wall street nd lost most of his gold, but never forgot him.

Whenever she's in New York, she steals time from her press interviewing and fashion photographs and boy friends and celebrity parties to call him and say hello-how-are-you, with all the graciousness of a great star to an old (and jilted) flame.

But you can't print that. You see, he's such a nice guy—he's never let her learn the real story of who jilted whom, and how!

Bonnie is one of the local stripteasers and her beaux ranged from foreign dignitaries to the most celebrated of her screen lovers.

But during the past summer a young and charming business executive out-distanced the rest of the field. It was solely a matter of his technique. He had a way of opening his checkbook as easily as she took off her clothes.

He asked Bonnie to marry him but she made no secret of the fact that her only interest in him was his happy cabbage, and they had so much fun together that he didn't even stop spending when she announced her engagement to another fellow.

Then came all the new credit regulations, and with them the end of his big money days. His financial structure collapsed when everyone put the pressure on him at the same time. His creditors called in the federal authorities and, in stalling for time, our hero became a fugitive.

That was when Bonnie discovered she loved him.

She telephoned 123 cities, trying to find him. When he finally was captured, she spent every cent she had saved in the world to post bail for him. And she drove miles from the city in which she was plying her art to visit him in prison.

Those who know Bonnie best are amazed at what love can do. The girl whose motto had been "a gal's best friend is her bank book" risked her career to stand by a lad who is broke. And by actual count, she's spent on him almost twice as much as the sum total of his gifts to her!

But you can't print that. You see, Bonnie's hair is a fake gold — and she'd like you to think her heart is, too

I inquired about his future movie plans. He had just finished the musical "Thank Your Lucky Stars" and he hadn't any new plans—except that he wanted to do a story of Eddie Cantor's life

"I may do it on the stage first," he said. "I don't want it as a story of one actor's life, but as a story of America, the land of opportunity. I was born on Henry street in New York. On the same street were born Irving Berlin, George Gershwin—and Lefty Louis who ended in the electric chair. I'd want it as a picture of a colorful period in American life."

It would be that Eddie's last 14 years have added much to the chronicle of his already full career.

He was wealthy and successful in 1929. The crash left him flat and $285,000 in the hole. "The only thing I had that wasn't on margin was my sense of humor," he said. "I went home to Ida' — his wife of nearly 29 years— "and we talked it over. We could have retrenched, but I knew it was a question of giving up or keeping my ambition. We didn't cut down. We didn't fire anybody or cut a servant's pay."

Eddie went out on the road instead. In three years he was clear of debt and free to save a dollar again

PREDICT FLYNN WILL GET O. K. OF COMMITTEE

Leaders See Recommendation But Expect Fight on Floor of Senate.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Democratic senate leaders today privately predicted that Edward J. Flynn, who recently resigned as Democratic national chairman, will win a favorable committee vote for his confirmation as minister to Australia.

Flynn faced vigorous opposition in the senate, however, with the result that confirmation is not yet assured. A senate canvass disclosed many senators who frankly, though not for publication, say that they are undecided how they will vote.

The showdown in the foreign relations committee, where the Democrats have a 15 to 8 majority, is slated for Wednesday. The nomination may not be placed before the senate for debate before next Monday.

Sen. H. Styles Bridges (R.) N. H., who charged Flynn is unfit to represent the nation in the important diplomatic post in a theater of war, said that he would continue his opposition.

"I shall fight the nomination," said Bridges, after the foreign relations committee had completed four days of hearings.

Sen. Tom Connally (D.) Texas, committee chairman, declined to discuss the nomination. He was pleased because the committee unanimously decided that he had conducted public hearings fairly.

The fight against Flynn, it appeared, will be on three grounds:

1. That he knew that New York City paving blocks and city workmen paved a parking place at his farm where, he said, he spent $35,000 to $40,000 in a renovating job.

2. That Flynn's background as a Bronx political leader is not sufficient qualification for service as a diplomat.

3. That he has not resigned from the Democratic national committee, although he resigned as chairman. Postmaster-General Walker, new national chairman, has Flynn's resignation but is polling the committee on accepting it.

Flynn appeared confident that the senate will confirm him, and his friends declared that his foes had failed to produce damaging evidence during the hearings.

DIES AT AGE 91

Illness Fatal to Mrs. Rebecca Keener at Ashland.

ASHLAND — Mrs. Rebecca Keener, 91, widow of James A. Keener, died Sunday at 1:30 p. m. at her residence, 346 Union street, after a short illness.

A native of Congress township, Wayne county, Mrs. Keener lived near West Salem for a number of years. She came to Ashland in 1909 and had made her home here since that time.

A former member of the Christian church at Polk, Mrs. Keener transferred her membership to the Christian church in Ashland in 1910. She was a member of the Century Sunday school class there.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Onilla Freeman of Sandusky; Mrs. Sadie Fackler, at home; and Mrs. George P. Iceman of near Ashland; one son, C. R. Keener of Ashland; 17 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren. Her husband died in 1921 and a son Ira, died in 1933. Mrs. Keener was the last of a family of 13 children.

Funeral services, in charge of Gilbert's will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Christian church with Rev. Frank W. Brown officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland mausoleum.

HOARDED GAS FIRE KILLS 1

Drum, Explodes in Basement of Apartment Building, Residents Escape.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Fire which followed the explosion of illegally stored gasoline in the basement of an apartment building today killed Timothy O'Connor, 19, and injured Edward Schuschu, 21.

The youth was trapped by smoke and flames in the basement. All of the other 17 residents of the apartment escaped safely after the explosion at 2:05 a. m. Schuschu was taken to a hospital with second degree burns.

Police held for questioning Patrick Nicholson, 18, a cousin of O'Connor.

Schuschu told police that before gasoline rationing went into effect he and Nicholson purchased 50 gallons of gas and stored it in the basement of the apartment in a metal drum.

He said that O'Connor and he went to the basement to get some of the gas in order to take an automobile ride. It exploded and the basement became afire, police said. Schuschu informed them. O'Connor's clothes caught on fire.

Both youths started to climb out a window, but O'Connor fell back into the flames, Schuschu said.

The fumes from the gasoline were ignited by open flames of a water heater, firemen said. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Police said they would consult police prosecutors as to possible charges to be placed against Schuschu.

The body was taken to the Snyder funeral home where services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. by Rev. G. M. Sauder, pastor of the Presbyterian church of which Mr. Wagner was a member. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

WICKARD WARNS CONSUMERS TO EXPECT MORE FOOD RATIONING

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Warning that America is "still too complacent about food," Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today said that consumers can expect tighter rationing of many foods in 1943.

However, the food czar predicted in his annual report to President Roosevelt, the average American on the home front will eat as well this year as he did in the 1930's. "Nutrition value" of consumers food supply will be about the same as in the depression decade.

"We may have to revise," Wickard said, "some of our ideas about supplies of food available to consumers in the next few months, even of the foods which we appear to have in comfortable quantities.

"We must begin to hold back," he continued. "The time to conserve food is while we still have something to conserve."

Although he did not list the products to be rationed, Wickard said war "shaves the civilian supply down to strict necessity." In part, he declared, the degree of rationing depends on the shipping situation.

Reporting that agriculture has lost 1,600,000 operators since the war began, Wickard said of the manpower problem, "evidence accumulating daily indicates that the situation is becoming serious."

In order to keep labor on the farms and thus meet this year's food goals, Wickard said, "it seems likely that some form of wage control will be necessary to narrow the difference between farm and industrial wages."

AUTHOR'S RITES

Cremation Planned For Body of Alexander Woollcott.

NEW YORK — (INS) — A simple non-denominational service will be held either tomorrow or Wednesday for Alexander Woollcott, 56-year-old author and dramatic critic who died after suffering a heart attack on Saturday, it was revealed today.

Following the ceremony his body will be cremated and the ashes shipped either to his birthplace at Phalanx, N. J., or to his island home on Lake Bomoseen, Vt.

Woollcott was in the midst of a radio broadcast at the time he was stricken and listeners were unaware of the tragedy being enacted at the studio. A police emergency squad administered oxygen but their efforts were unavailing and the famous author died shortly after.

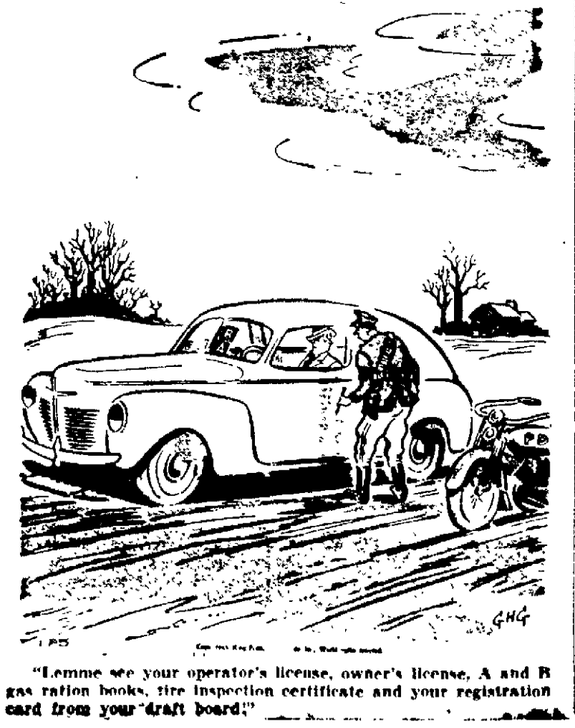
LOUDONVILLE—Funeral services were to be conducted at 2 p. m. today at the Gilbert funeral home for James A. Gauze, 66, who died late Saturday at his home in Perrysville. Rev. J. H. Kuhlman, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, was to officiate with burial in Greenlawn cemetery at Loudonville.

Mr. Gauze was a retired farmer and had lived in the Perrysville-Loudonville area for a number of years. He had been ill only a short time.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mattie Bowles Gauze, and several brothers and sisters in Kentucky.

Laff-a-Day



"Lemme see your operator's license, owner's license, A and B gas ration books, tire inspection certificate and your registration card from your draft board!"

Although he couldn't be present to receive his honor at class day exercises last Friday for January graduating class of Senior high school, Donald Sprecker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Sprecker, 715 Dickson parkway, was one of the eight students to receive honorable mention for scholastic honors. Donald is enrolled at George Washington university, Washington, D. C., where he went this fall after completing graduation requirements in summer school at Ashland college. In addition he has been named by Congressman J. Harry McGregor as first alternate for appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and will take his entrance examination April 21.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, today received official notification that his nephew, Sergeant Horace Bonner, has been personally commended in a war department citation for "exceptional bravery, beyond the ordinary call of duty and while under enemy attack." Sergeant Bonner, who has visited his uncle here, is stationed with an anti-aircraft artillery unit at Dutch Harbor, off the coast of Alaska. During a Japanese bombing attack of the unit's base last June 3 the unit's barracks were blasted and fired by Jap planes. Ignoring peril to himself, Sergeant Bonner rescued a number of comrades from their sleeping quarters and afterward aided gun crews in wreaking havoc on the air raiders.

DIES AT AGE 75

LEGISLATORS URGE SOURCE COLLECTIONS

Fear U. S. Will Lose Revenue From New Taxpayers on Pay-as-You-Go Plan.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A movement gained headway in the house ways and means committee today to transform the projected "pay-as-you-go" tax program into a "collect-as-they-earn" plan through pay check deductions.

With the house ways and means committee scheduled to meet late this week to discuss legislative plans, Chairman Doughton (D) N. C., disclosed that he had asked both the treasury department and the joint committee on internal revenue to submit collection-at-the-source proposals.

At the same time, Rep. Disney (D) Okla., a member of the ways and means committee, issued a statement warning that unless pay check deductions are voted, the government is in danger of losing millions of dollars in uncollected revenue from new taxpayers.

"There will be about 20,000,000 new taxpayers. Unless we capture this money as it is paid out, it is gone. Many taxpayers will make returns and fail to pay," Disney asserted.

Rep. Jenkins of Ohio, a Republican member, took a similar position.

"I think we are going to have to work out some kind of a collection-at-the-source plan," he said. "Furthermore, I think most taxpayers will favor it, as it will make it easier for them to meet the increased burdens on their pocketbooks."

At present, there is a sharp division within the committee over how to get either a "pay-as-you-go" or a "collect-as-they-earn" program into operation this year. It is agreed by all members that the American taxpayer cannot bear the burden of two years of taxes in one year, but the split comes on how much to forgive.

A group of Republican members, headed by Rep. Carlson of Kansas, want to forgive a whole year of taxes. Doughton, together with some Democratic and Republican members, and treasury department officials, think that only a portion of a year of taxes should be forgiven.

Oh Well, Maybe He Can Learn To Knit A Sweater

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Mrs. Frederic Amour, 23, had kissed her husband goodbye, as he left to take his army examination.

"Be a good soldier, dear!" she said. "I'll carry on!"

She wept a bit. Then took a long look at his picture on the mantel. "I'm going to help you, Freddie! The sooner we all get into this, the sooner it will be over and we can be together again."

An hour later, she enlisted in the WAAC.

Then she returned home, expecting an empty house, a solitary dinner — with no Freddie. Instead there was a pleasant bustle. It was Freddie bedecked in a gay apron. He was stirring up an omelet.

"Surprise, dear! I haven't been accepted!" he cried.

She replied: "Surprise, dear! I have!"
